I did not look for happiness...it came to me -

I try to define — come up with answers
and add up philosophies.
When I fail
(as I often do) I realize that when emotions pull one way and logic another — you're left with only questions.

At a time when my emotions were sharp

My three-dimensional feelings confused me -

Until I realized this ride could not be taken alone.

I can only know that much of myself which I have had the courage to confide to you;
but
If I tell you everything about who
I am today . . .
Tomorrow I may be different.

I needed the piece of myself which you gave to me.

By our example
we can influence a person's day
but Give him his own example and you have influenced his life.

We did not look for happiness -- it came to us...

Each day we become more involved in a world that cries out for the individual.

Blindly we follow this path becoming insensitive and closed to others needs.

In facades of intellect, maturity, boredom and sophistication
we seek for a completeness, impossible to reach.

Then in a flash of humility,
the wall is broken and a hand is extended to a far-away friend.

As the contact is made,
so is the bond of emotion
once feared so greatly.

beyond ourselves.

Student Body President: Tom Stromberg

We all carry different attitudes and ideas to each individual with a spice of our own character. Naturally we have our own ideas, but at Highland the Ram is carried by each of us to everyone we communicate with. The Ram is an attitude. An attitude to overcome weaknesses and pay the price of greatness. An attitude of never settling for second without exhausting all effort at the top. This attitude starts with one person, catches another and grows to engulf an entire studentbody, until that studentbody demands superiority in all its undertakings. When we realize the interests and capabilities of every different individual, as we have this year, we find that even though we are different, "Together We're Won."

Tom Stromberg

Debbie Tucker Secretary

Student Body Officers

Marc Mariani 1st Vice President

We couldn't walk down the hall for very long without hearing the laugh of Tucker. It seemed as though she carried an endless amount of enthusiasm with her wherever she went. She wasn't all fun and games though, when it came to work, Deb was the force behind the scenes. Her ideas were new, her motives were real and her dedication was to Highland.

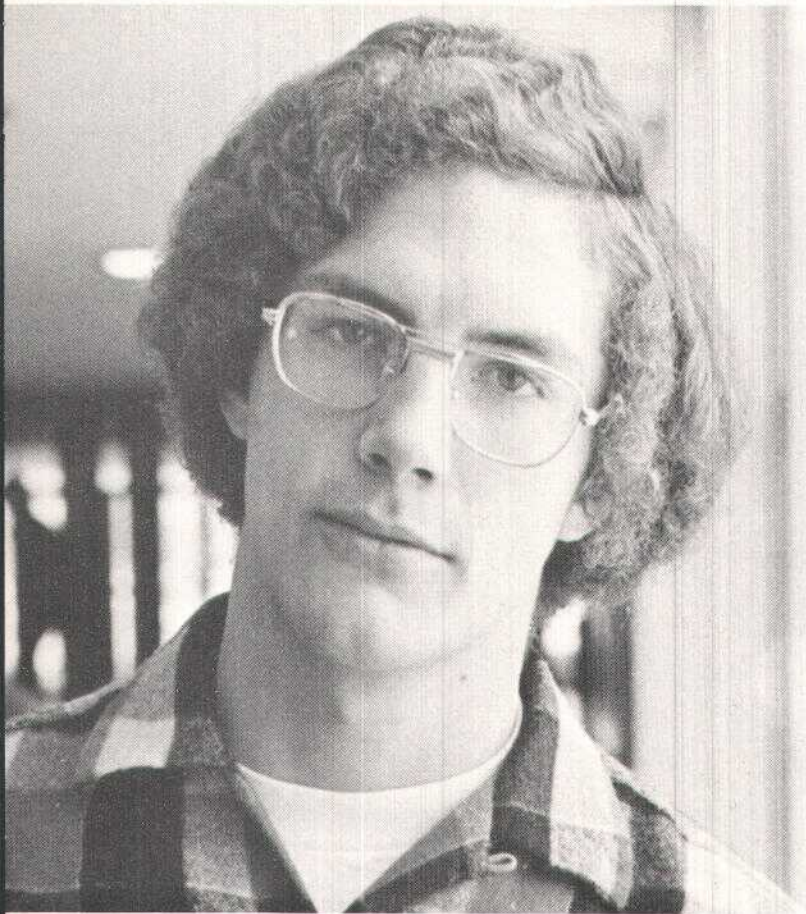

If we were to analyze Ernest closely, we might say he was an "organized crime," but on the other hand . . . who really knows? For Marc, seeing through a problem was an art — either crack a joke or move straight ahead; one was sure to meet the occasion. His game was to make us a part of "the family" — who could turn down a deal like that?

Brad Nielson, 2nd Vice-President

Brad's his own man and he's not afraid to let you know it. He shared with us a silent spirit that didn't need a lot of explanation. Maybe this was the proud humility that touched Highlanders. Whether Brad was fighting on the football field or battling with the school activities, we knew that our "curly-haired cowboy" would always be there.

Sue Jackson, Historian

What do you say about a girl who breathes the word respect? Her presence seems to linger even when she's not around. To know Sue is to admire her consistent happiness and the natural leadership ability that comes so easily. Highlander is a part of her and she has become a part of Highlander. Jackson — the girl with the eternal smile.

H.A.M. Officers H.A.W. Officers

Ask anyone on the Board of Control what it's like to wade in trivia, and they'll probably tell you that they forgot . . . in the midst of personal jokes, cabin orgies and suckers. It's hard to appreciate the real strength of this body when their accomplishments remain anonymous; however, their strong personalities reflect a job well done.

H.A.M. OFFICERS: President, Steven Brown; Vice-President, Lee Zuhars; Secretary, Von Perry.

H.A.W. OFFICERS: President, Marilee Doxey; Vice-President, Laurie Harris; Secretary, Ila Cassity.

Marilee: What's a woman?

Steve: Maybe you'll find out in a couple of years.

Marilee: What do you mean?

Is that when you'll finally get around to asking me to the Boy's Dance?

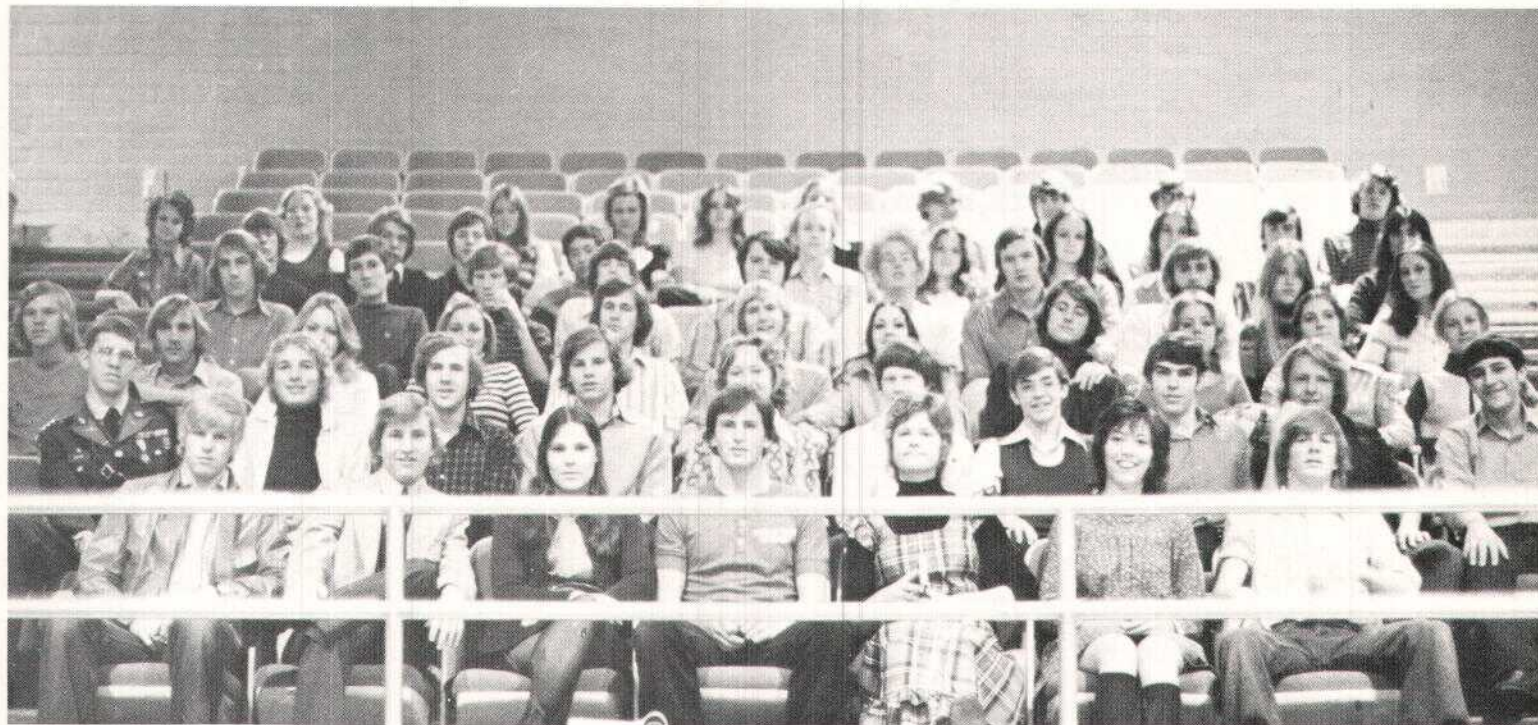

Steve: No, what I meant was that apparently the President's program for physical fitness (or development) wasn't all that effective.

Larry Palmer: The End.

This year's H.A.W. and H.A.M. officers upheld the traditions of their respective roles, the only tragedy was — where were their representatives?

House of Representatives

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES — FRONT ROW: Paul Ogilvie, Woody Wrigley, Kate McMains, Dan Eastman, Janet Durham, Susan Hadlock, Charles Johnson. The former Student Council had a great chance to give students a voice in government this year. But, with home room representatives thinking the school budget had something to do with library fines, this organization's main claim to fame was it's new name. House of Representatives?

Senior Class Officers

President

Woody Wrigley

"Flowing" everywhere is "Queazy" Woody Wrigley. As Mr. Highland High, Woody wouldn't mind seeing you in his office immediately. Thanks to his unforgettable wit and personal vocabulary the Senior Class survived. (Halloween is over, Woody.)

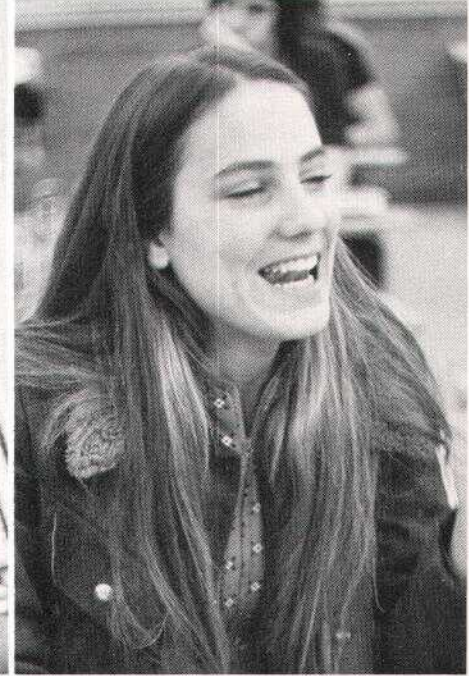

Vice-President

Richard Lowe

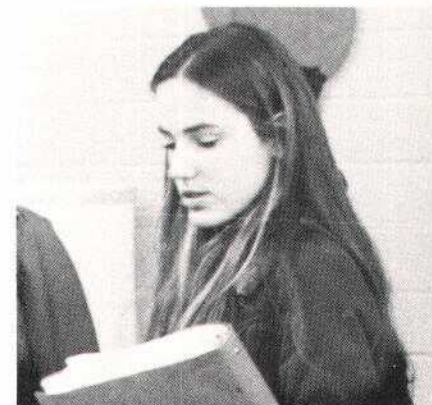

Caught up in the light side of living, it's not unusual to find Rich sitting in the library with his feet on a chair, cracking a few jokes. Underneath the humorous Lowe, there lies a bit of reservation and easy-going style. It is this combination making Rich unique.

Secretary

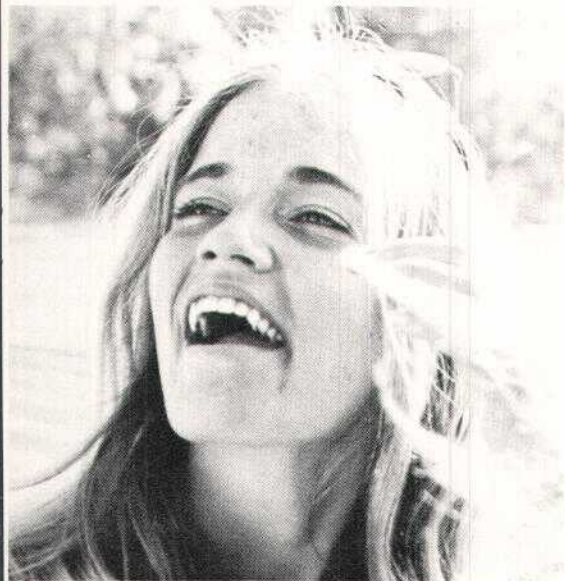

Amanda McMains

Being sensitive means having an insight to people and in Amanda's case it's sharing a quiet warmth with others. Who can ignore "Birds" convincing smile and boisterous laugh? Her self-discipline is an example to us as a means of motivation.

Like frustrated children thrown into a room with an open door at each turn;

We, as seniors run the risk of being brave enough to look ahead.

Junior Class Officers

President

Dave Stevens

Dave's a pure comedian, who can find original humor in a bowl of federally subsidized soup. Respect comes easily to him, simply because the nature of his personality demands it. He was once seen wearing a bow-tie made of money but "Juniors are worth it."

Vice-President

Debra Hubert

Debra has the knack of seeing both the funny and serious side to life, particularly life at Highland. She's the one with the infectious laugh that can be heard above any crowd. Debra was our junior voice — in more ways than one.

Secretary

Marlene Brinkerhoff

Marlene's a laugh a second; and you can guarantee that being with her makes a pretty fast moving minute. Adding a new atmosphere to student government, we felt her happy energy. She's loaded with talent and loves people, but best of all, people love her.

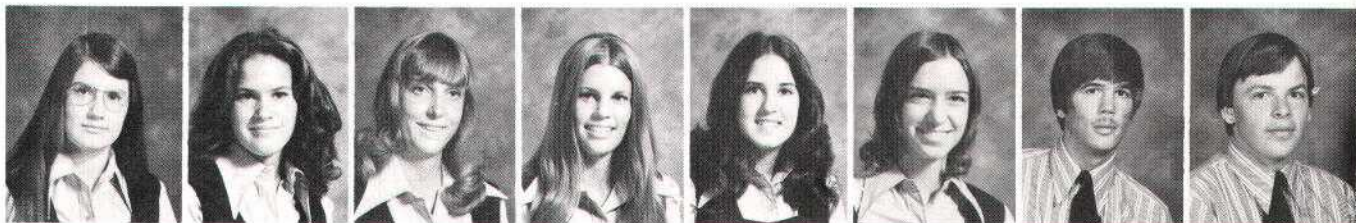

Juniors know how to find the darkest corners at stumps, eat the good part of federal lunch and paint the ceiling with the bad, cause floods from drinking fountains, and just have fun while completely blowing everything. Fortunately for them — they can spare the time.

There were days
I was so caught up in the lives of others
I forgot to look at the change in me.
But leaving myself
behind was fun —
I always thought that giving was hard,
until someone said, "thanks."

Sophomore Class Officers

President

Nick Glezos

By projecting a conviction that sophs take themselves too seriously, Nick has come upon the answer for sophomore blues. "We should speak up and in that way take advantage of the opportunities that are here." Witty and outspoken, Nick struggles to make the small voice of a sophomore big. Nick's business — good sophomores.

Vice-President

Lane Anderson

A straight forward personality that senses the subtle humor of being a sophomore, gives Lane an insight to his class. One can't help but admire him for his dedication and sincere desire to achieve. Lane's secret to success lies in his honest smile, summed up in his own words, "We can't let studies get in way of our education."

Secretary

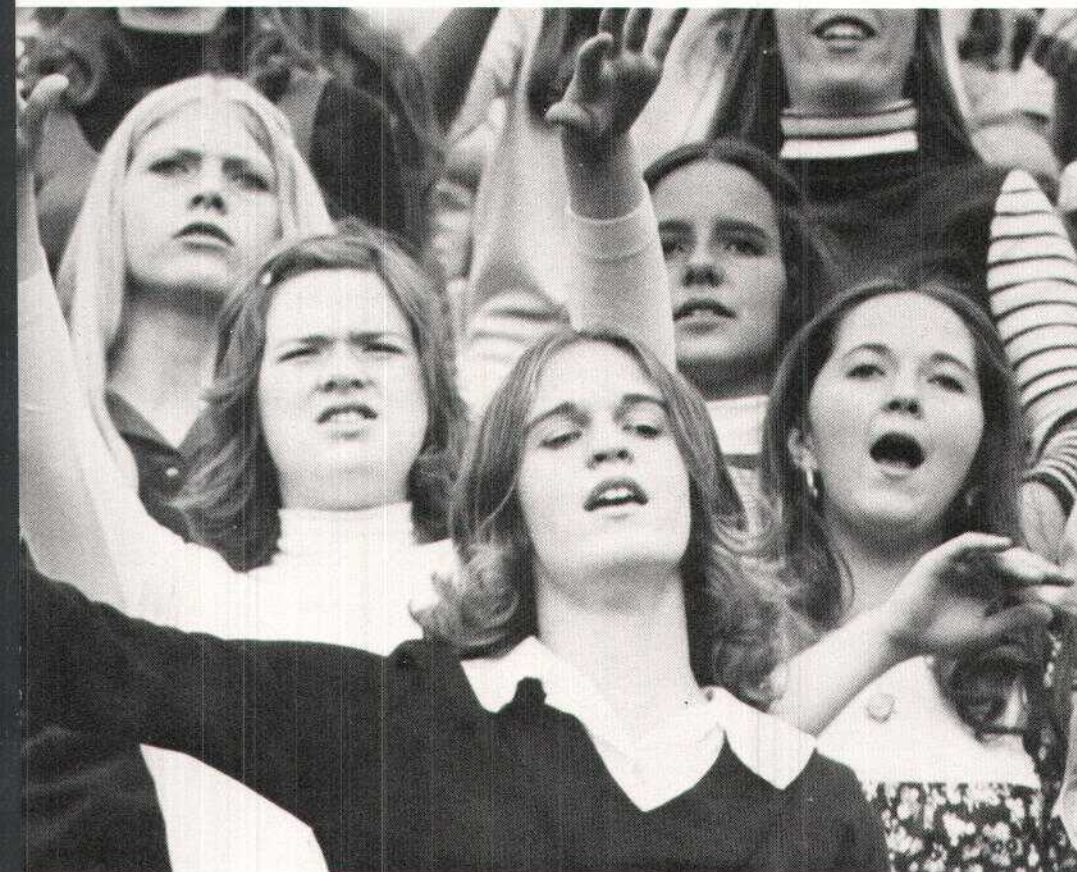

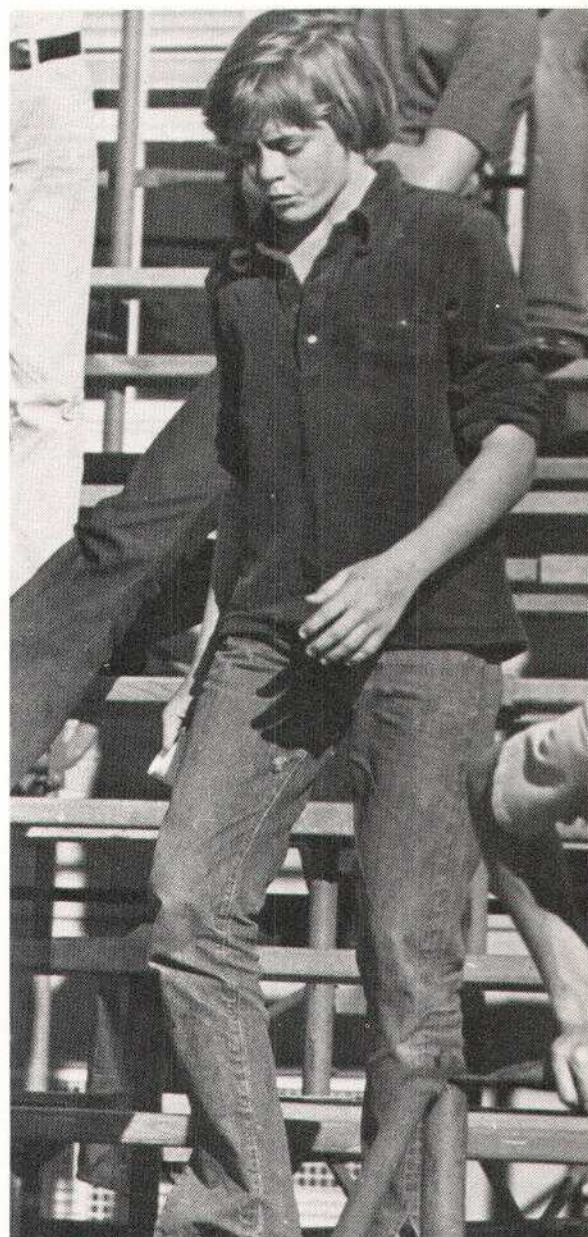

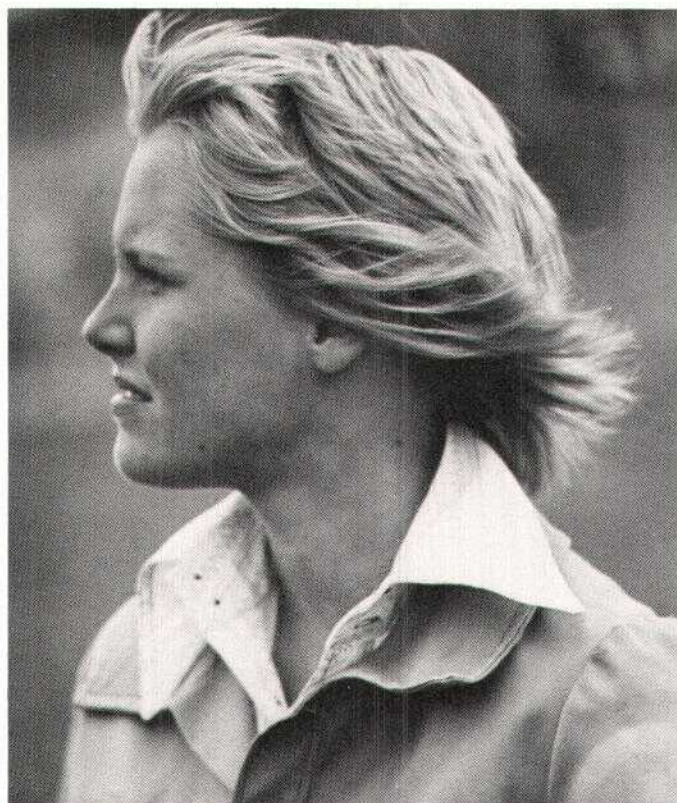

Debbie Gray

Working to keep up her own image in the midst of friends, Debbie enjoys the novelty of being a girl and more specifically a sophomore girl. It's refreshing to see someone laugh just for the sake of having fun. "I love to be in the middle of spirit." This is the picture of Debbie Gray.

A person who secretly believes in the principle of recess as a substitute for sluffing, sophs made it go —
thanks to rides from their mothers and experience gained from junior high dances.

Infatuated

Learning to mix my emotions with the outside surface of others was tough. Sometimes I wanted to hide myself where no one could see inside my unsure being. I guess it was just a part of learning to accept the individual called me — someone I was afraid to give but wanted to become . . .
